"PINETUM" GLADIOLUS BLUE-BOOK

SUPPLEMENT NO. 1
Expert Ratings on 100
Leading Varieties

FOREWORD—To this Edition

THE RATINGS contained in this booklet are based upon the work of a committee of five experienced gladiolus growers. The original intention was to publish a rating book separately from any commercial consideration but the expense and the necessity of continuing this work over a more extended period, has resulted in the decision to issue this preliminary supplement together with prices—which I hope will not militate against its value and appeal—and to publish the larger edition in 1924.

RATINGS

Chas. E. F. Gersdorff has made a compilation of this character in "The Flower Grower"—which I have not seen in its entirety—and there is a Gladiolus Nomenclature volume by Clark W. Brown which I understand is now in the press. The American Gladiolus Society also maintains a testing and classifying division.

The ratings are divided into XXXX (the best), XXX (fairly good), XX (just ordinary), and X (not much better than quite poor).

The basis of these ratings are as follows:

RATING BASIS

1. Color—25 points; 2. flower—25 points; 3. spike—20 points; 4. foliage—10 points; 5. durability—10 points; 6. general effect—10 points.

During the past few years probably more than 400 new varieties have been introduced and this will give some relative idea of the work involved in the classification and determination of values.

In a great many instances the same variety is known under several different names and this is another reason why careful classification and investigation is necessary.

The committee is not satisfied with its work so far but it has approached it and will continue this work in a spirit of broad-mindedness; it will welcome criticism, constructive suggestons and I will accept on its behalf any varieties offered for testing and rating.

THE SUPERIORITY OF THE GLADIOLUS

To those who are not intimate with gladioli I wish to emphasize the fact that many of the varieties listed in this booklet will provide constant and fresh bloom for a period of from 10 to 15 days; this is just as true of some of the older and low-price varieties as of those that sell at $50 to $1,000. In variation of colors and in color effect the gladiolus is without any superior. Under such circumstances the supremacy of gladioli as cut-flowers for table and house decoration should be undisputed.

As a hobby and out-door aid to better health the gladiolus should also hold a high place. In good porous soil, color values can be determined within 24 hours of the blooming period. There is an aesthetic thrill in gladiolus growing which only the real connoisseur can appreciate and this is possible for anyone who cares to devote a few minutes' time daily to this work.

Another neglected feature is that the average non-commercial grower has failed to appreciate the value of gladioli as a forcing and indoor plant; I have had more success with gladioli in four-inch pots, placed in a sunny window during the winter season, than with the best and most sturdy varieties of tulips and other cold-weather bulbs.

A GUARANTEE TO THE PURCHASER

Although the prices quoted in this booklet are comparatively low I am offering a guarantee and protection to the buyer in that I will agree to refund the purchase price on any gladiolus variety purchased provided the bulb after blooming—and found to be different to the one ordered—is returned together with enough of the bloom to establish its color. Extreme care is requisite to maintain varieties "true to name" and I am offering this guarantee to protect the value of my offerings as against those growers who are not so meticulous.

TERMS ON GLADIOLUS SALES

All prices are based upon cash with orders. No order accepted for less than $1.00. Parcel post to the 5th zone is prepaid on one to 12 bulbs (weight 1 pound); on 100 bulbs (about 6 pounds) delivery can be made by express or parcel post but at the expense of the buyer.

Out-door planting is from April to August, about every 10 days for constant bloom; and indoors at any time during the year. Length of maturity—planting time to blooming—varies from 65 to 115 days; this is indicated in most instances in this booklet.

Complete planting instructions will be furnished to the buyer on request.

Varieties that bloom in 65 to 75 days are the most desirable for forcing.

ALL BULBS OFFERED SUBJECT TO PRIOR SALE

ALICE TIPLADY—"Gladiolus Alice Tiplady, a brilliant orange Primulinus Hybrid, is gracious enough to bloom before the Bellebonna Larkspur has left the garden, and its graceful, often crooked spikes with heavenly blue of Belledonna gives one of the most gorgeous displays of color, rising from the golden depths of an Aurene bowl. This same Alice Tiplady is Oriental, with color intensified, when used in a glossy black urn, the brilliant orange reflected in some black place or bowl on the table beneath."—Kathryn Beach Tracy in "The Garden Magazine."

100 (large bulbs), $11.00; 50, $5.50; 25, $3.00

Smaller bulbs, one-half above prices.

Or, better still: 100 Prim. Hybrids, including Alice Tiplady, comprising many different colors, $6.00; 50, $3.25; 25, $1.75
